

When I first visited Barcelona, shortly before university, I knew that architecture would be my life. Everything in Barcelona is design and that truly stunned me.

La lumière est protagoniste

Mexico is a country full of light and color. These are attributes found everywhere. In architecture, in people, in food. Everything is warmth. Light is the protagonist.

Thinking BIG brought me to launch two of my own companies this year, one in architecture, one in furniture design.

I now dream of placing them in the big league.

Designs that touch the soul. Spaces that make you feel, that speak to you in some way or another, but to which you definitely cannot be indifferent.

The night owl in me works in PJs. The daytime businesswoman opts to dress up ready to jump out and meet a client at any moment.

Je suis profondément inspirée par l'architecture de Zaha Hadid : puissante et féminine.

I wouldn't mind a spell turning me into water for eternity. I'd choose water for its ability to transform into whatever it wants, to change course, to evaporate, to reach the sky and fall back down in thousands of drops; to turn to ice, to be solid, strong, imposing, and then simply melt and return to that fluid state that reaches every place it wants.
