MATTEO DE BARTOLOMEIS

MILAN, ITALY
Publishing Coordinator, IFDM

Ah … To Be a Rockstar…

My Italian teacher in high school once told me I COULD NOT write. Basically that I had no aptitude whatsoever for any career in the commercial sector.

“In life, you change.” Signed the Design Publishing Expert, just saying!

I’ve learned to:

Always close the circle.

Always find the time to raise your head.

Make a little bad figure a day makes you back on Earth.

If a spell were cast on me, by all means, I’d wish to be transformed into my wife’s wallet. That way, I could be with my precious forever and wherever… From Pampelonne Beach in Ramatuelle, France, to the Moon and back!

I admire imperfect perfection and try not to be influenced by routine, trends or settings for that matter! There are no geographical boundaries in my mind… Only music! Led Zeppelin and Peter Gabriel, for those who wonder!

If I could live the dream, I’d have Albert Einstein, Peter Gabriel and Christopher Nolan over for dinner and serve them mozzarella di Bufala, risotto alla Milanese and a perfectly constructed airy, crispy, flaky millefeuille.